What was once a small fishing village in the south-eastern corner of Cyprus is now a hotspot for holidaymakers looking for a lively break; over 250,000 clubbers throng into this party capital each summer and the phenomenal atmosphere in its scores of bars and nightclubs is nothing short of explosive. But this cosmopolitan town isn't all about bars and clubs for the young. If you look closely, you will discover that Ayia Napa is full of history and tradition.

Ayia Napa Town

The centre of the town is built around a medieval monastery. This has been well preserved over the centuries and a visit here is like stepping back in time. Just to the side of the main square, traditional folk dancing takes place during the summer. At the end of September, the Ayia Napa Street Festival takes place and features singing and dancing performances. Special acts from all over the world are brought here to perform at the festival. One of the most beautiful locations to visit in Ayia Napa is the fishing harbour. A lot of money has been invested over the last couple of years to revitalise this area. The entire harbour has been transformed into a pedestrian zone, with cafes and seafood taverns lining the area. A wooden walkway spans the length of the harbour. At night, beautifully designed lights illuminate the area, setting the perfect scene for a romantic meal or a stroll along the harbour.

Marine Life Museum

The Marine Life Museum is located in Ayia Napa's Town Hall. It is the first natural museum of its kind in Cyprus and it exhibits past and present marine life and promotes the study and research of marine life while also emphasising the importance of preserving the marine environment. The exhibits include a reconstruction of a dinosaur seabed, fish fossils, shells, sea urchins, sea turtles, sea plants and more. Every specimen in the museum was removed from its natural habitat after death. The Marine Life Museum is visited every year by thousands of tourists.
